Subject: WSOU v. Juniper - Source Code Inspection

[EXTERNAL EMAIL from trousseau@brownrudnick.com]

Counsel for Juniper,

WSOU hereby requests that the following outside consultants who have been disclosed under the Protective Order be permitted access to inspect the source code for the Accused Products beginning on Monday, June 21 and continuing day-to-day thereafter:

- Chris Hardee of Lumenci, Inc.
- Deepak Patnala of Lumenci, Inc.
- Ryan Guitierrez of Lumenci, Inc.

WSOU understands that Juniper will only agree to make its source code available for inspection at its headquarters at 1133 Innovation Way, Sunnyvale, CA 94089. For the purposes of the initial code review, WSOU agrees to perform the inspection at Juniper's Sunnyvale location. In doing so, WSOU does not waive its right under the Protective Order to request that Juniper make the source code available for inspection at another, mutually agreeable location.

WSOU requests that Juniper identify within 3 business days (i.e., by Wednesday, June 9) the reasonable analysis tools appropriate for the type of source code being made available for inspection that Juniper intends to install on the Source Code Computers so that it may determine whether to request the installation of any additional commercially available licensed software tools for reviewing and searching source code are necessary.

Regards,
Tim
